Important information about identification requirements

The Anti-Money Laundering and Counter-Terrorism Financing Act 2006 (AML/CTF Act) was introduced to bring Australia's AML/CTF system in line with international standards and reduce the risk of Australian businesses being misused for the purposes of money laundering or terrorism financing.

The Act covers various business sectors, including the financial sector, and came into force on 12 December 2007.

For many members, Maritime Super is required to meet strict identification and verification requirements. This means that, prior to withdrawing your super benefit (including as a pension), we must be satisfied that you are who you claim to be and you must provide a certified copy of prescribed personal identification documents. While this may cause some inconvenience for you, it prevents fraudulent people from trying to access your hard-earned superannuation money. In most cases, you will only have to provide identification documents once.

Maritime Super should always have the following information about you on file:

- your full name, including your title, given name(s) and surname
- any alias or other name you are known by (if applicable)
- your full residential address (post office boxes are not accepted); and
- your date of birth.

To make it easy for you to understand the types of identification documents you are required to provide, we've outlined these documents in the tables to the left. You simply need to choose Option 1 or Option 2 and then provide a certified copy of the documents listed there.

Your full name, date of birth and residential address on your identification documents must match your details in our records.

Once you've had your documents certified, send the certified copies to Maritime Super at:

Locked Bag 2001
QVB Post Office NSW 1230

Please note that you cannot fax or email these documents to us.

What is money laundering and terrorism financing?

The goal of most criminal acts is to generate a profit, and criminals commonly seek to disguise the illegal source of those profits. Money laundering is the processing of criminal profits to disguise their illegal origin. Additionally, terrorist groups move funds to disguise their source, purpose and destination. Terrorism financing includes the financing of terrorist acts, terrorists and terrorist organisations. Both money laundering and terrorism financing are serious crimes.

What happens if I do not have identification?

Maritime Super will not be able to pay out or transfer your benefit until you satisfy our identification requirements. Furthermore, your transaction may be delayed where identification documents are inadequate.

Do you accept documents which are not in English?

Yes. If the document is not in English, you must also provide an accredited English translation.

How do I get my photocopies certified?

To have documents certified, you will need to take both the original and a photocopy to a person with the qualifications (or registered or licenced in that profession in Australia) from the list below. What if I am signing on behalf of another person?

Only a person who holds a valid power of attorney or is the legal guardian of a member may sign requests on the member's behalf. As well as the identification documents in Option 1 or Option 2 for the member, you (the attorney or guardian) will need to provide a certified photocopy of guardianship papers or a power of attorney and provide personal identification documents for yourself. You must also confirm that the power of attorney or Guardianship Order is valid each and every time you sign a document on the member's behalf. Additionally, the power of attorney must be valid under NSW or Victorian law for us to be able to act on it.

What if I have changed my name?

You will need to provide a certified photocopy of a marriage certificate, deed poll or change of name certificate from the Registry of Births, Deaths and Marriages which evidences the change together with a certified photocopy of documents from Option 1 or Option 2 in the name you wish to be known by.

What if there is an error in Maritime Super's records?

If we have your name or date of birth incorrectly recorded or misspelt, it is important that you contact Member Services as soon as possible to discuss what we will require to update our records. In general, if the error is typographical, we will require two sets of identification documents and may need you to confirm some details about the commencement of your membership (with Maritime Super or SRF or SERF before it). Where the difference is more substantial, we will require further documentation, which you can discuss with Member Services on 1800 757 607.

What if I nominate an agent to act on my behalf?

You will need to give us a written authorisation, including your signature and the agent's full name, date of birth, address and signature. A company/partnership name is not accepted as an agent; it has to be an individual. Maritime Super has an Authorised Officer form you may wish to use.

Where do I send the certified documents?

Please send your original certified copies to Maritime Super: Locked Bag 2001, QVB Post Office, NSW 1230. Please note that you cannot fax or email these documents to us.

How will my privacy be protected?
