Providing proof of identity

Steps for providing proof of identity

There are three steps you need to take:

1. Take a photocopy of your ID documents - refer directly below for examples of the types of ID we accept
2. Take your photocopy and the original document to an approved person (see list below) to have the photocopy certified - the approved person must compare both documents and certify each page of each document as being a true and correct copy of the original, followed by their signature, printed name, their qualification, years of service (if required) and the date.
3. Return your certified photocopies to Maritime Super by mail to: Locked Bag 2001, QVB Post Office, NSW, 1230. We cannot accept ID that has been faxed, emailed or photocopied because we must have the documents with the certifier's original signature on it.

Which ID documents are acceptable?

The following documents are acceptable:

- a current Australian or foreign photo driver's licence
- a current identity card or Proof of Age card
- an Australian passport (that did not expire more than two years ago)

- an Australian birth certificate or birth extract;
- a birth certificate issued by a foreign government.

Staff in Maritime Super's Sydney or Melbourne offices can certify copies of your identification documents, as well as our financial planners based in Fremantle and Brisbane.

The following people can also certify copies of your documents:
